Preface

The schools of today are giving each student a well-rounded education so that he may go into the world a better person. This education includes the Fine Arts, Liberal Arts, Practical Arts, and Physical Education. Each section of the yearbook represents one of these phases of life.

The students who are being educated today are living in the "Shadows of the Future" and this constitutes the theme of the '63 KENEU. The art theme carries this further by adopting the symbol of the atom. The photography theme concentrates on shadows.

We, the yearbook staff, hope to present here a school year consisting of students receiving a well-rounded education.

ADMINISTRATION

Mr. S. Goldborough Tyler, Principal

Since becoming principal of North Dorchester High School two years ago, Mr. Tyler has proved to be a capable administrator and a fine example to all those who know him. He encourages each student to do his best in school and to make the best of his future. The challenge issued by Mr. Tyler at the beginning of last year has found many students responsive and showing a marked improvement.

The Administration

Mr. Ray Moore, Vice Principal

Mr. Moore is a long-time member of the faculty. He has charge of all disciplinary problems and carries out the measures for what he considers the good of the student. Besides being Vice-Principal, he also teaches physics, chemistry, and science.

Mrs. Nancy Pritchett, school secretary, was replaced by Mrs. Wanda Creighton in January.

Mr. Robert Vincent, Guidance Counselor

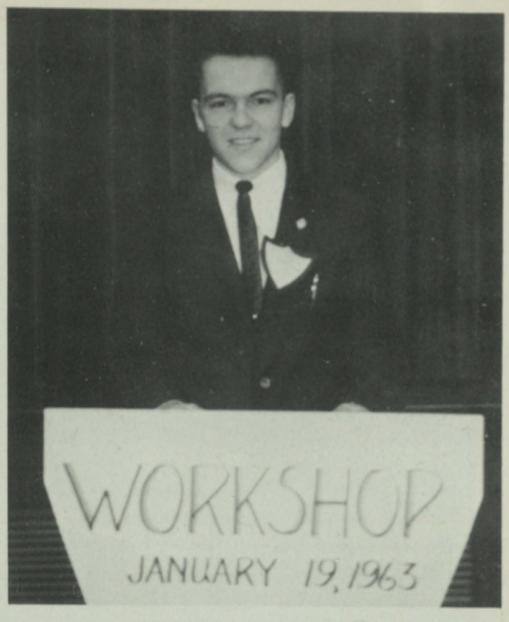
Mr. Vincent, at left, is the member of the faculty to whom each student turns for advice and counseling. The seniors especially appreciate the help of Mr. Vincent in finding jobs or colleges after graduation. Sponsoring the Student Council also takes up a great deal of his time.



Denny Gemeny, President of the Lower Shore Association of Student Councils.

keeps us moving forward.

The Student Council has been run efficiently this year, by its first girl president, Joyce Dodd. Its major project has been to sponsor the adoption of an American Indian Orphan. This organization also sells concessions at home football and basketball games. A past member of Student Council, Denny Gemeny, this year served as President of the Lower Shore Association of Student Councils. At left is a picture taken at a workshop for council members held in Cambridge, Md.

Music, Drama, Publications, Honoraries

FINE ARTS

Usually after music class at ND you can hear singing all over the campus. This year the music classes studied the men that were responsible for music and also different kinds of bands and orchestras.

At the Thanksgiving Assembly the vocal music class sang two selections. The sermon was delivered by Father McKinley from Seaford, Delaware.

Faculty members in the music department are Mrs. Frank Baynard and Mr. William Naugle.

The sound of music . . .

The North Dorchester High School Band.

Throughout the '62 football season at all home games the spirit of the school was raised by the ND band. The school is very proud of its band for it participates in many activities such as parades, Candlelight Service, pep rallies, the spring concert and graduation exercises. During the parades the band wouldn't be able to get along without their drum major Ann Kramer and the loyal majorettes Judy Frosch, Rose Bell, Diana Clay and Phyllis Lowe.

"Night of January 16" was a courtroom drama in which the defendant, portrayed by Jane Holloway, was on trial for murder. The attorneys, Lanny Payne and Norman Wode, presented witnesses who gave testimony to the court. One interesting aspect of the play was that the jury was chosen from the audience the night of the play. It was surprising to find that she was found innocent the first night and guilty at the second presentation.

Members of the '62-'63 Keneu Staff worked diligently to produce a good yearbook.

Members of the '62-'63 Eagle Staff, at right, included C. Adkins, D. Roberts, G. Moxey, M. Shorter, B. Lankford, D. Woodward, R. Stevens, J. Saunders, B. Mumford, N. Wheatley, seated; J. Mumford, M. Hastings, editor; J. Holloway. Below; Francis Bellis looks over a copy of the Eagle.

The Eagle, the school newspaper, this past year was published monthly under the supervision of Mrs. A. E. Richardson. The KENEU, the school yearbook, was sponsored by Mrs. Donald Bradley. Both the newspaper and yearbook staffs consisted mainly of students who had had a year of journalism. The editor-in-chief of the Eagle was Mary Hastings. The editor-in-chief of the KENEU was Nancy Jackson. Advertisements supplied a large part of the money for both publications.

Deadlines and bylines kept us busy.

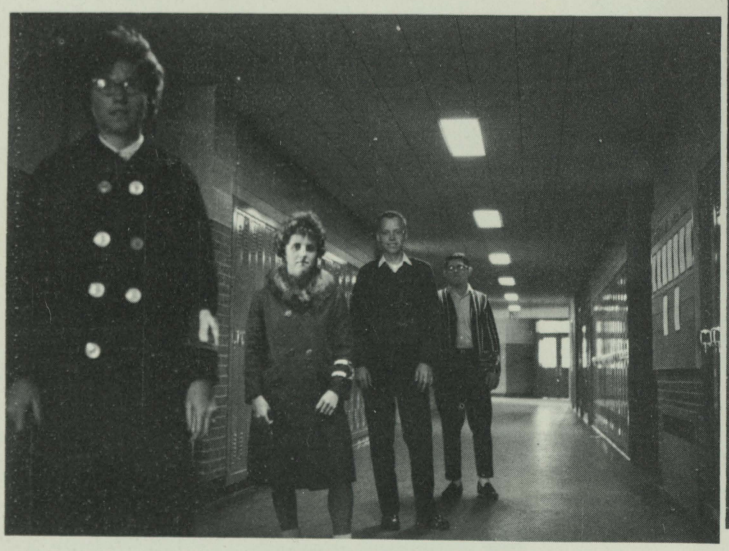
School honoraries

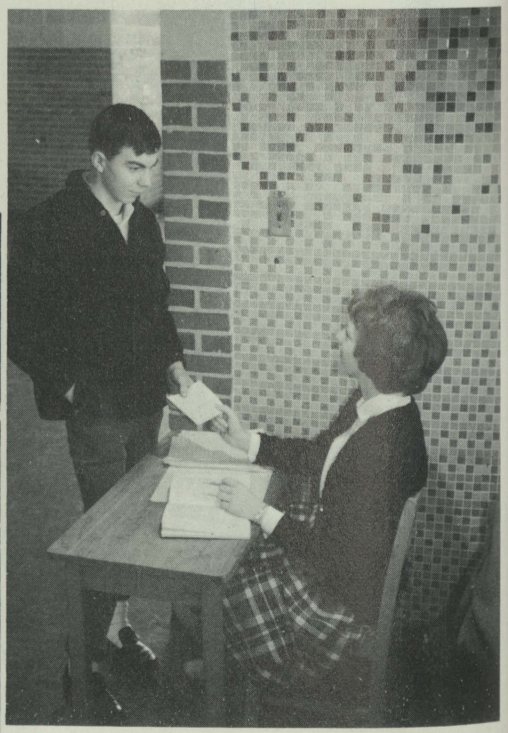
The Kiakimi Chapter of the National Honor Society was sponsored by Mrs. T. Hamil Smith and consisted of students who maintained a "B" average for two semesters.

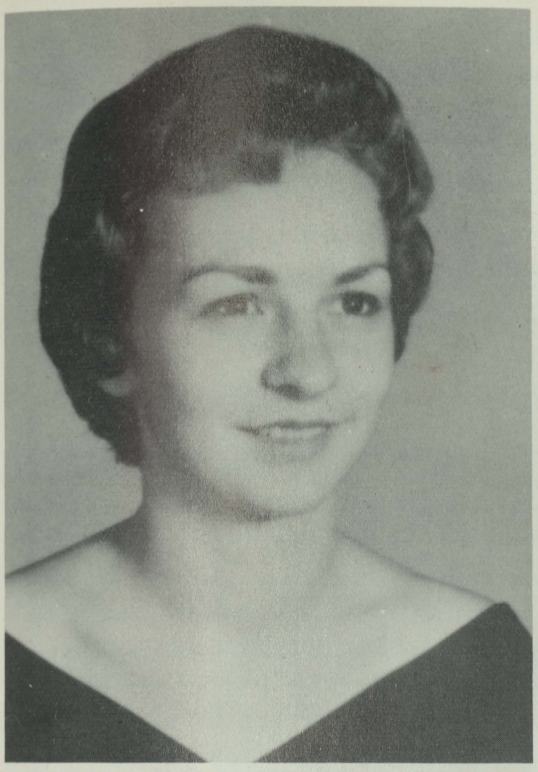
One of the highlights of the year was a trip to Wilmington where students had their choice of visiting either the University of Delaware, the Wilmington General Hospital School of Nursing, or Goldey Beacom School of Business.

One of the most important committees of the Honor Society was the School Spirit Committee. Their projects consisted of selling school-color bow ties and sponsoring a Mr. and Miss School Spirit Contest.

Another hard-working committee is the foreign exchange student committee which made appeals for financial help in obtaining a foreign exchange student for North Dorchester.







Knowledge of our government procedure won Jane Holloway, above, the DAR award for 1963. At right, two high spirited seniors, Mary Hastings and Steve Adkins, reigned as Mr. and Miss School Spirit of 1962-63.

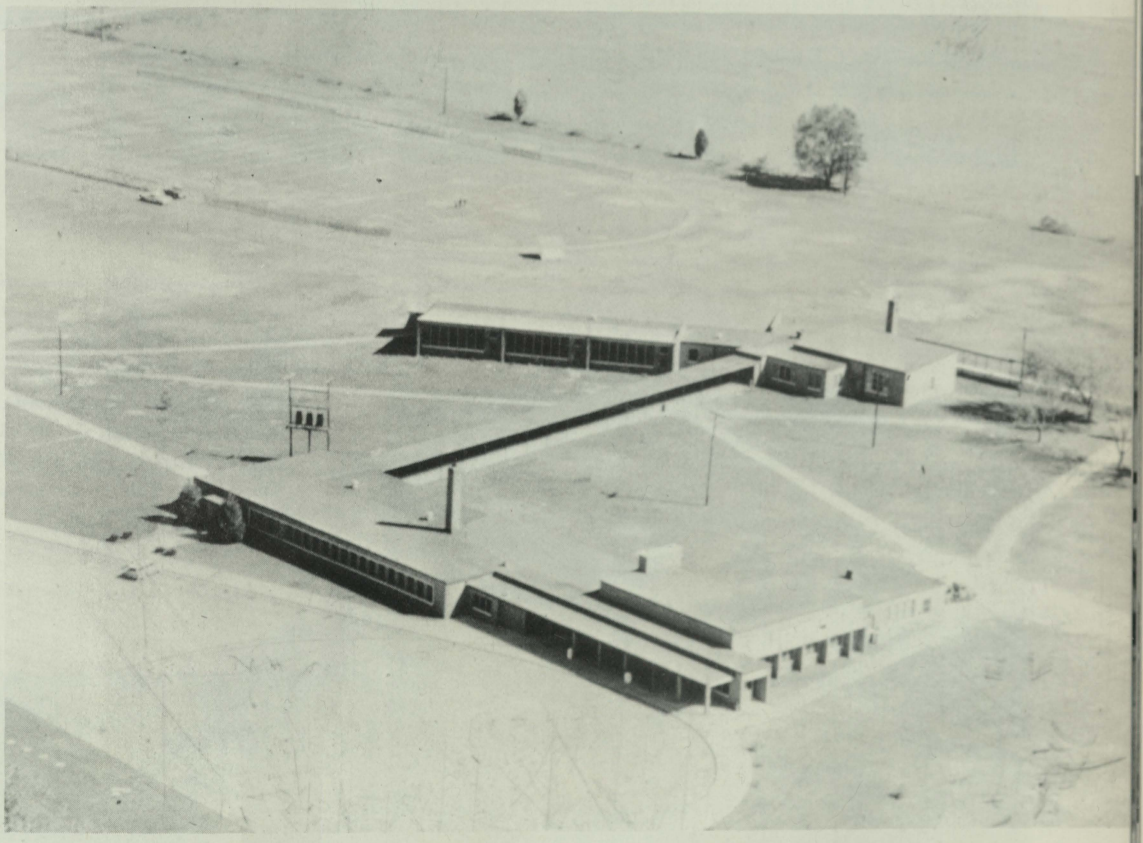
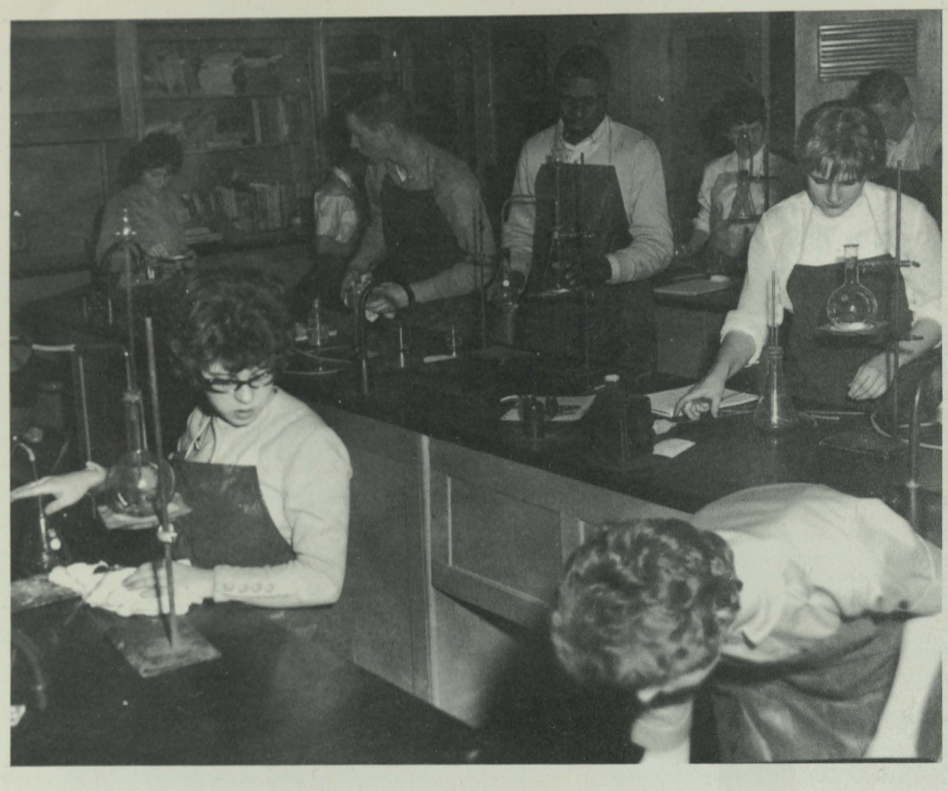
Commercial, Languages, Math, Science, Social Studies

LIBERAL ARTS

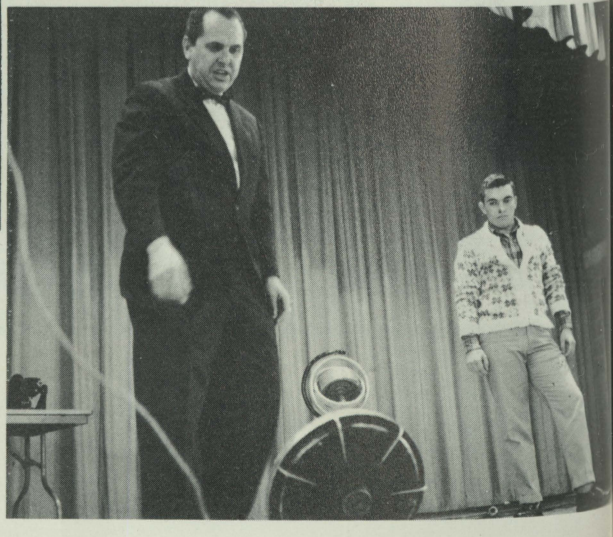




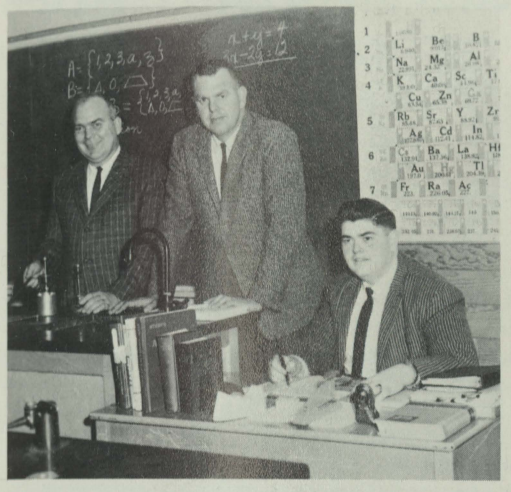
Is it oxygen or nitrogen? Do they really know?

Math and science classes constitute a wide range of topics at North Dorchester. Math courses include algebra, geometry, and trigonometry. Science courses are comprised of general and physical science, biology, chemistry, and physics. One of the highlights of the year was a science assembly featuring a gyroscope.

A demonstration on a gyroscope was featured in an antrim assembly.



Triangles and beakers puzzled and perplexed.



Junior high math and science teachers are Mr. Tom Austin, Mr. John Nossick, and Mr. William Wheatley.

Senior high instructors are Mr. William West, Mrs. Crawford Pomeroy, and Mr. Ray Moore.

Looks like everyone wasn't thinking of algebra.

To build up student interest in the Exchange Student program, an assembly was held with guest exchange student speakers from Italy, Belgium, Turkey, and Iran. Commercial courses give students business training.

Those students expecting to enter commercial fields after graduation enroll in the commercial course and take such courses as typing, bookkeeping, shorthand, business law, economic geography, and general business. An eleventh grade business law class is shown at right.

Agriculture, Industrial Arts, Home Economics

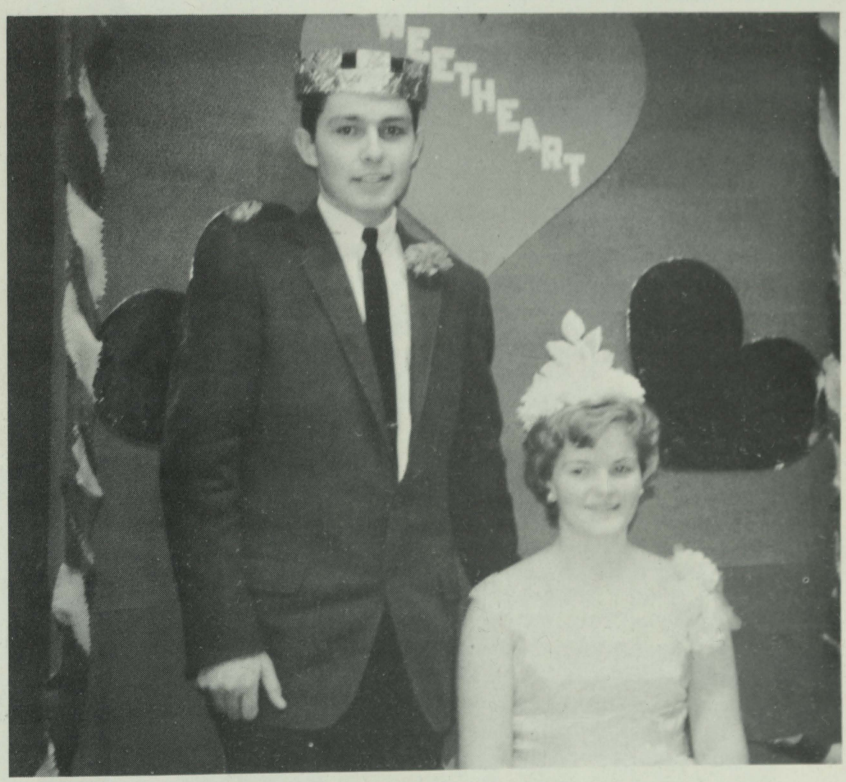
PRACTICAL ARTS

Teaching Practical Arts at ND are Mr. Perry Flegel, in charge of the industrial arts department, Mrs. Conrad McCulley, in charge of home economics and Mr. Martin Reid, in charge of the vocational agriculture department.

Jane Holloway, an academic senior, placed first at North Dorchester in the Betty Crocker "Search for the Homemaker of Tomorrow" contest by scoring the highest number of points in an examination dealing with home economics.

Home Economics classes held three times each week included units on cooking and sewing, and for the senior students, (10-11-12) a unit on consumer buying.

The Future Homemakers of America Club was sponsored by Mrs. Shirley McCulley and consisted of approximately 50 girls from grades 9-12. FHA members promoted such projects as Bundle Days and they helped serve the community by fixing boxes of cookies in attractively decorated boxes for the people at the Fisher Nursing Home in Hurlock. Highlights of the year were the trip to the state convention in Baltimore and the Mother and Daughter Banquet.



One highlight of the year for the FHA and FFA Clubs was the annual Sweethearts Dance. Martha Head and Peck Dean were crowned sweethearts.

Proceeds from crops grown by the FFA goes back into the farm for better results next year.

The JV's managed to put together an unblemished record this year as they ended with an 0 and 10 won and lost record. There were several games in which the JV's led throughout most of the game, but there was neither game that ended with our boys on top. Leading the JV's in scoring was captain Kenny Smith with 96 points. Although they turned in a winless season this year, several of the JV boys looked as though they could turn out to be valuable to the varsity in the next few years.

The Leisurely Life of a Senior

Officers of the '63 senior class could often be found presiding over class meetings which involved plans for future graduation activities, as seen at right. Above right, officers were Norman Wode, President; Marvin Shorter, Vice-President; Bonnie Harding, Treasurer; Madeline DiGenno, Secretary; and Julius Dilworth, Sergeant-At-Arms.

Nine students from North Dorchester were privileged to have the opportunity to attend Girls and Boys State in the summer of 1962. Dona Woodward, Mary Hastings, Nancy Wheatley, and Ruth Stevens spent a week in Annapolis while attending classes in the State House. Ronnie Walker, Norman Wode, Steve Adkins, David Roberts, and Marvin Shorter studied government procedure at the University of Maryland. This activity is sponsored annually by the American Legion. The two groups are shown below.

Eddie Hunt and Julius Dilworth, above, often sang at parties and other festivities in this locality. Their talent was often put to use on the ND campus.

To the reader:

The school year,like this yearbook, has come to an end. The time has come to say good-by to the faculty, staff, and you, the students of North Dorchester High School.

With these good-byes, I would like to include my thanks to all the people who made possible the production of this yearbook. Many thanks go to Mrs. Sylvia Bradley, our advisor, who guided us through the year, urging us on when our work seemed to falter. The staff of this yearbook annual also deserves a great deal of credit for working diligently throughout the year. In addition, I would like to thank those who purchased copies of the Keneu, business ads, and patron ads in order to help finance this issue of the yearbook.

I sincerely hope that you have enjoyed this'62-'63 Keneu as much as we have enjoyed producing it for you. We hope we have captured the highlights of this school year and as you look back upon it in years to come that you will be reminded, through these pages, of many pleasant memories.

Cordially,
